Why partnering with local, diverse suppliers matters.

We have a long history in the United States and are committed to playing our part in supporting local businesses and contributing long-term socioeconomic benefits to many California communities.

For us, purchasing local goods and services is about partnering with area businesses, large and small, to source the things we need. It's about providing opportunities to help local businesses grow, and in doing so, create new jobs and training opportunities for communities impacted by our operations.

Together with our Community & Social Performance (CSP) teams, we work in partnership to strengthen the capability of local and diverse suppliers. We believe that by increasing opportunities, we can improve long-term benefits for the region overall.
